"Bamboozled."

That's the report on the police blotter this morning from the Purity Bakery, 718 East Broadway, which yesterday let a' stranger have $25. He left some jewelry as security but this has been found to be imitation and worthless.

The way the old, old trick was worked follows the general formula. He rushed into the bakery and stated that his wife was leaving for Los Angeles and needed money immediately. Would they accommodate him with $25 for a day if he left his

They did. Then they investigated.

The police are looking for a man with sandy hair and a smooth face, also a smoother tongue. He is about 5 feet 8 inches tall, wears a dark suit and a soft hat.

While a bunko man was operating in one end of town yesterday, another equally daring man stole a tire from James W. Pearson's Ford sedan in the Palace Grand parking space.

It was reported to the police that a man in khaki drove his old machine into the auto park and took the extra tire off the rear of Mr. Pearson's car which he fitted to one of his own wheels and then drove away.

No one realized what was taking place, however, until it was too late to ascertain who the person was or where he came

PERSECUTED, IS CLAIMED AGAINST MILITARY

ATHLONE, Ireland-Two sisters, Una and Lean Sharkey, of Strokestown, county Roscommon, are prisoners in the military barracks here after a series of alleged persecutions by crown forces which have made their case one of the most celebrated in western Ireland.

An interesting feature of the case was the determination of the young women, both of whom have visited the United States, to keep the Ameri-American novelty stores," at Strokes-

The White Cross association's report on the affair says the girls repeatedly raised the flag, but each time it was hauled down and seized. "Finally the flagpole was removed and a threat made, with a revolver at the girls' heads, that if the flag was again shown the house would be burned."

Fear Knitting Machines

The young women's troubles began, it is said, when a retired police official conceived the idea that they were turning their shop into an ammunition factory because they had a knitting machine in their store. The sisters encouraged him in that belief. When the joke on him became public the aged police official became the town butt. This made him so angry, the White Cross report states, that, with the aid of a fellow constable acting as a magistrate, he had the sisters arrested and they were detained in a prison cell for two nonths.

After being released, the report LIONS IN GIFNDAF says, "they were commanded to close their stores, which tyrannous order they ignored. Again, they were arrested, and kept in prison for several months." On being freed they tried to reopen their shop with the result, the report asserts, that their entire stock, valued at more than $15,000, was seized and carried to the military

Six months later, the report continues, "the military took back a dilapidated remnant of the goods looted, and against the protests of the Misses Sharkey dumped them into their store." This was sold at auction, realizing about $200. With that amount and a contribution made by sympathizers throughout the country, the sisters again engaged in business.

"The girls," the report says, "were of the greatest revival that Glendale now persecuted by black and tans, has ever experienced. God is ready who robbed the counter tills and re- to give us victory. Fire on our moved whatever of value that struck church altars, and in homes touched,
